

THE MACGIBBON FAMILY TREE

Descendants of John and Jane MacGibbon and their children Thomas, Jessie, Jeannie and John Jr, who arrived at Port Chalmers, New Zealand, from Greenock, Scotland, on 26 December, 1849.

Prepared by John MacGibbon in February 2000. Corrections and additions should be advised by phone (04-479 5545), mail (267 Cockayne Road, Ngaio, Wellington 6004) or e-mail (john@infomedia.co.nz)

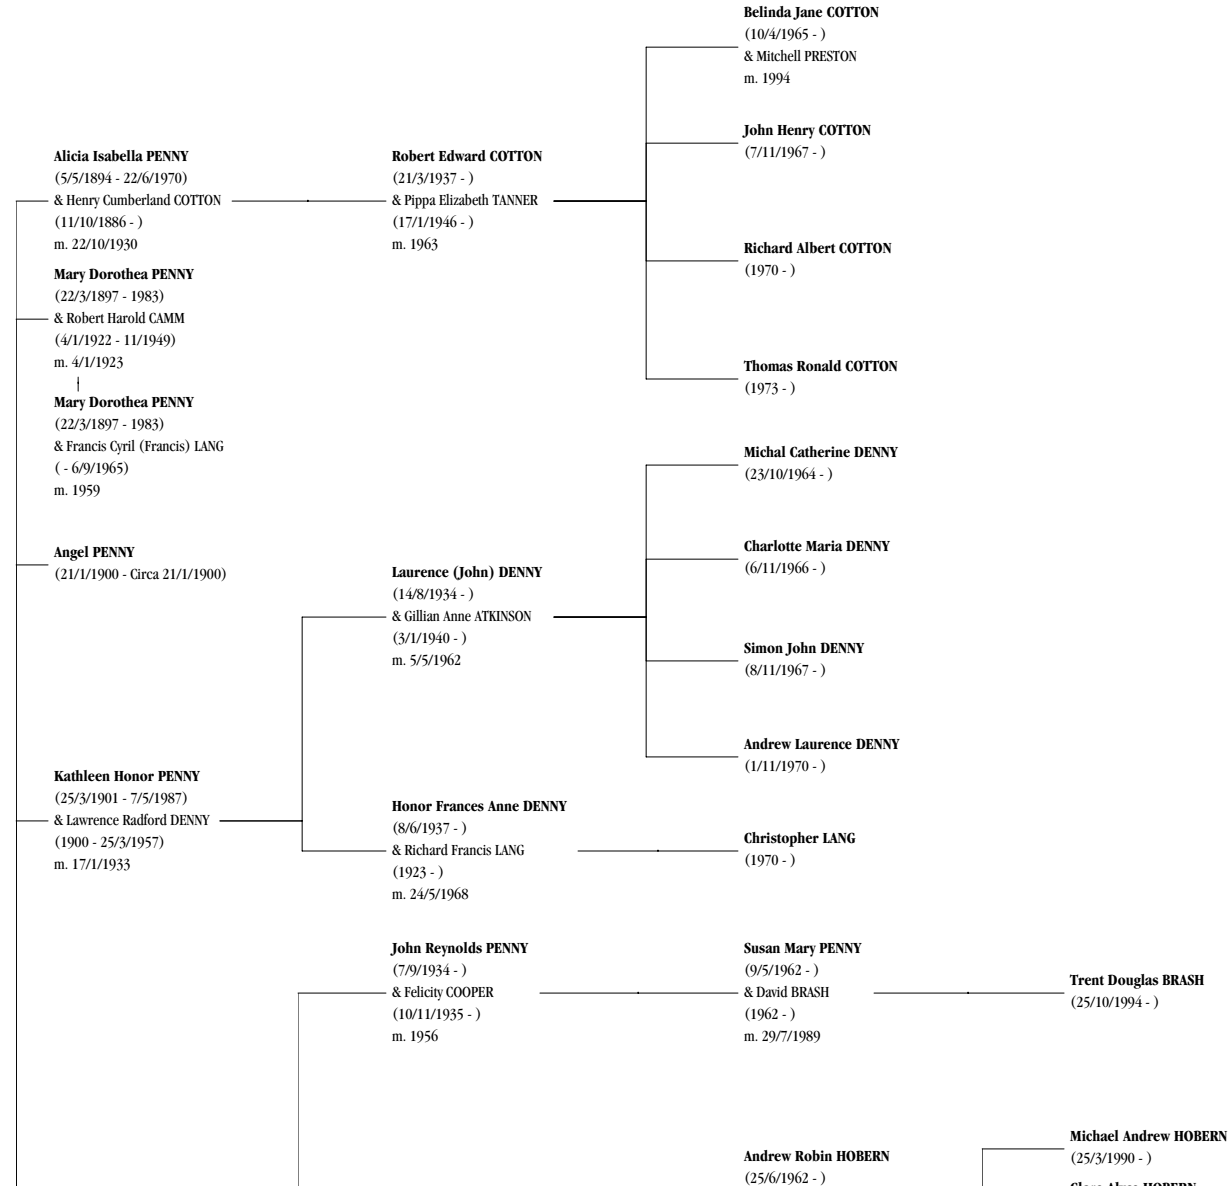

THE MACGIBBON FAMILY emigrated to New Zealand from Glasgow, Scotland. John MacGibbon (then spelled McGibbon) was a grocer and tea/coffee dealer who had a shop (and probably lived above it) in Saltmarket St., Glasgow. John, with his wife Jane and children Thomas, Jessie, Jeannie and John Jr, emigrated to the Free Church Settlement of Otago in the barque Mooltan. They arrived at Port Chalmers on 26 December 1849 having already bought a New Zealand Company 'property': a quarter acre in town, ten acres in Caversham and 50 acres in the country.

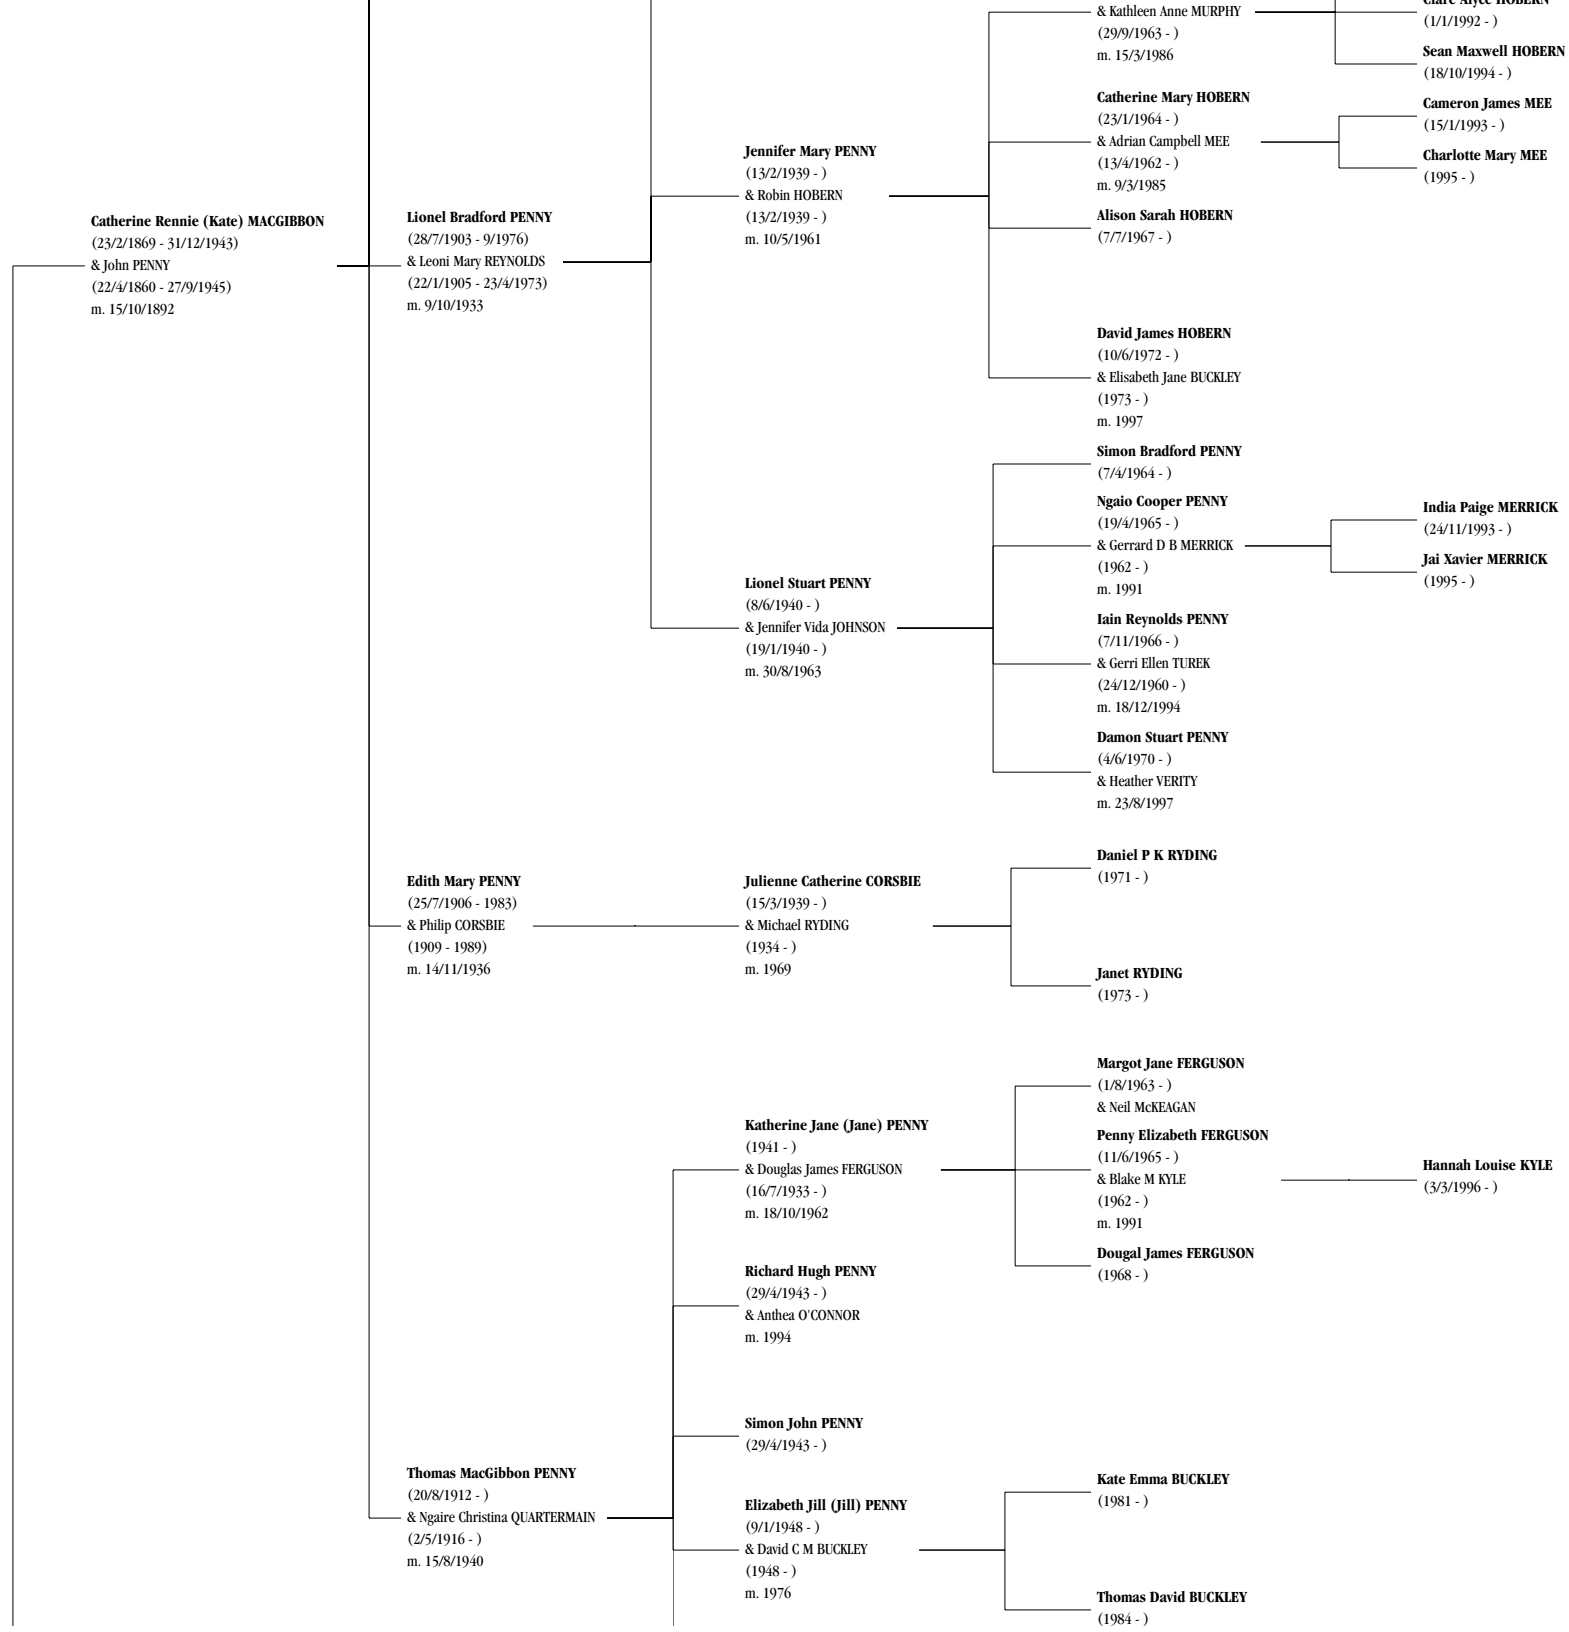

The family's first home and general store in Dunedin was on the corner of Princes and Rattray streets, on a site now occupied by Philip Laing House. Within a year they moved to their Caversham block, and John began diversifying into agriculture and other business pursuits including importing. The Rattray Street shop was sold in 1851. While in Dunedin, David, Ebenezer and Archie were born. David died in 1858.

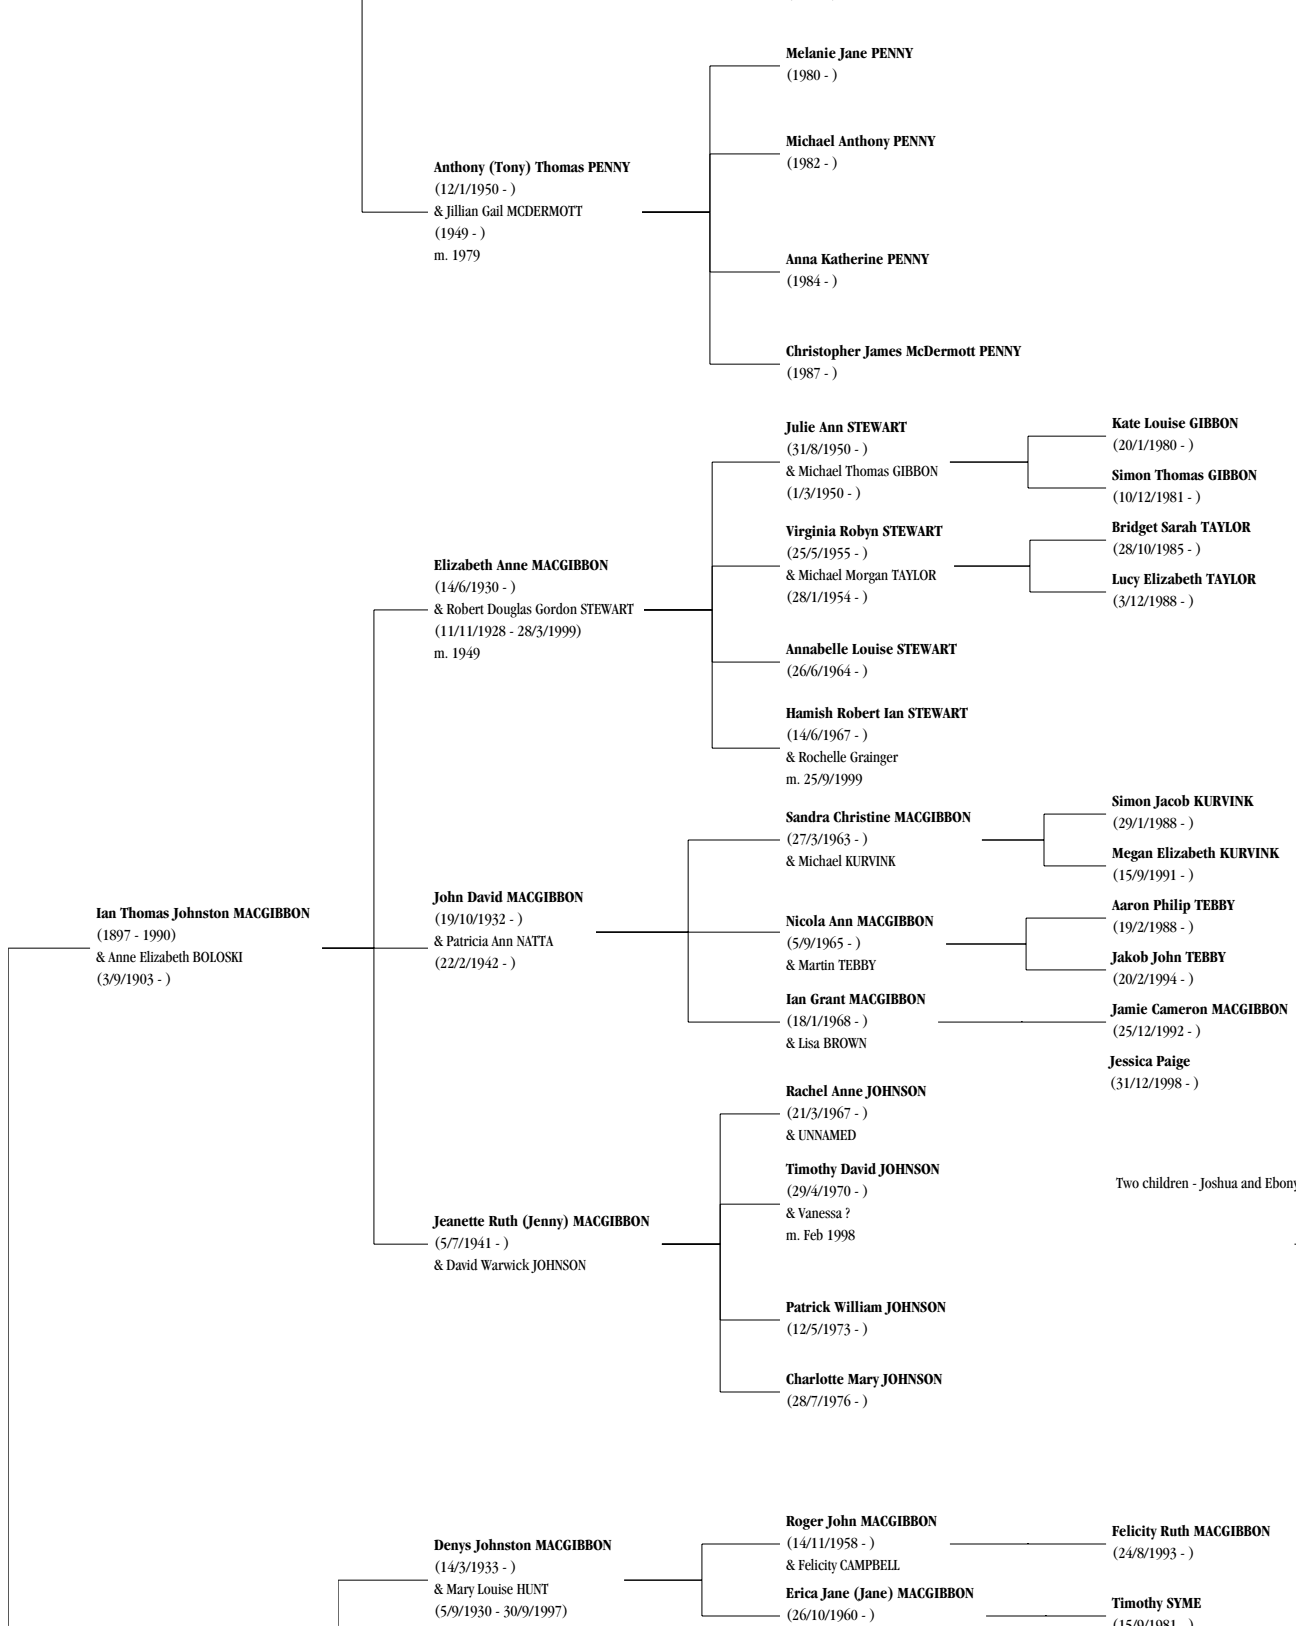

In January 1858, John and Thomas took up a large cattle run, 'Otapiri', on the northern flanks of Southland's Hokonui Hills. They gave up the lease after seven months and returned to Dunedin. In December 1858 the whole family was on the move again, travelling overland by bullock wagon to Maitua, where John Sr had been contracted by the Otago Provincial Council to establish a river ferry and accommodation house. Colin MacGibbon was born in Maitua in 1861. In 1866, the MacGibbons purchased Kelvin Grove Run in the Hokonui Hills.

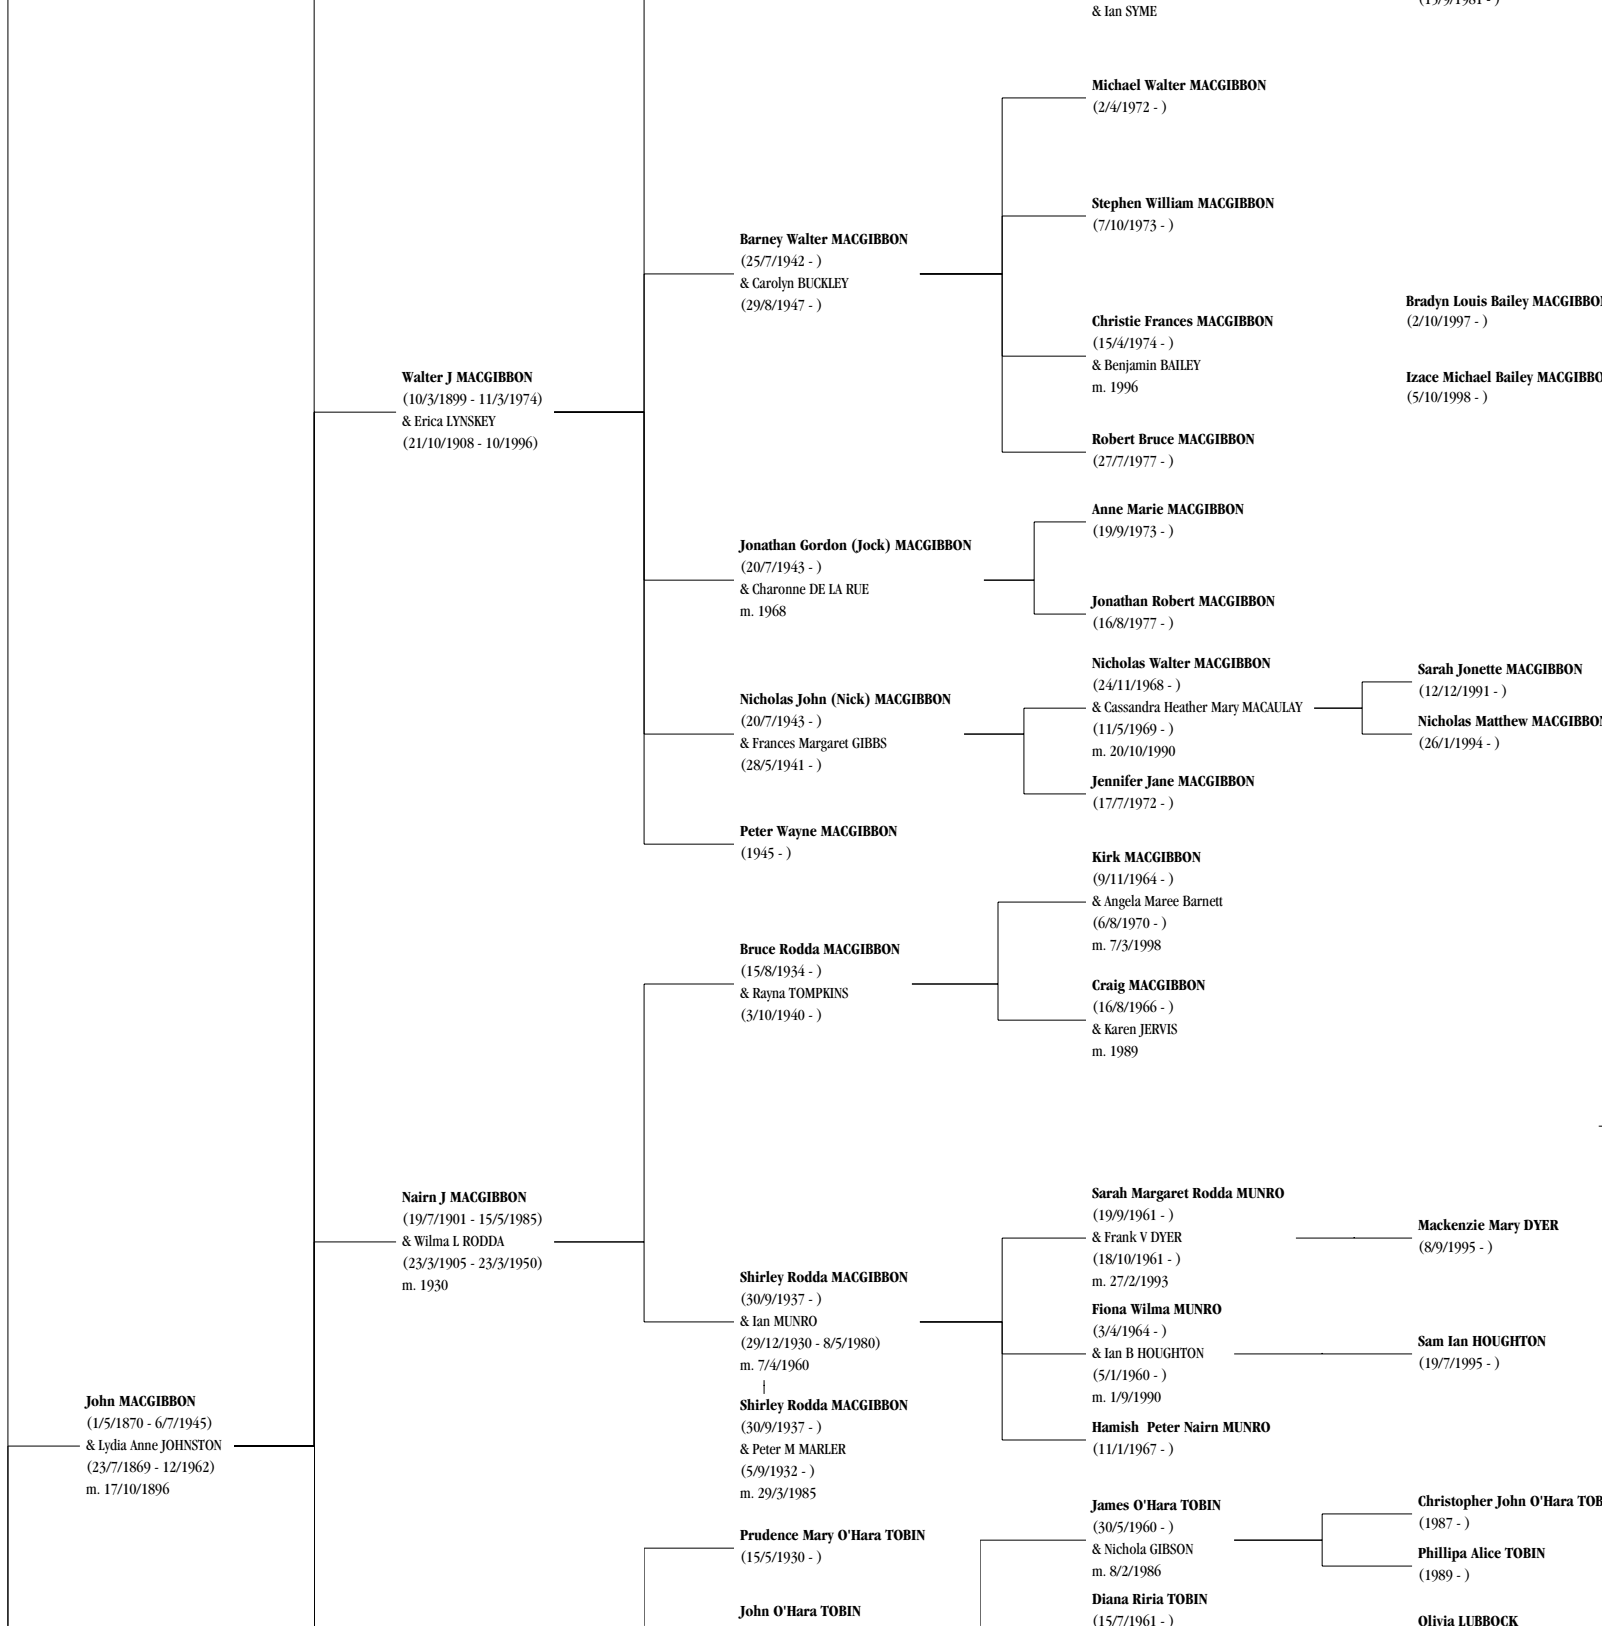

In 1872 the family returned to its retail traditions and bought a general store in Maitua. This proved very successful and was followed by stores in East Gore (1878) and Gore (1883). John MacGibbon and Sons was the biggest trading company in Eastern Southland for many years. Its fortunes declined from the second quarter of last century, and the final branch closure - Main Street Gore - took place in 1962.
